Global Overview:

United States:

Europe:

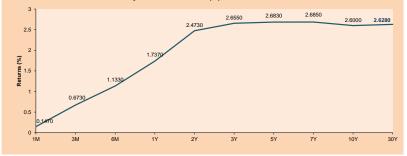

Major European indices ended the session with negative returns. The pan-European STOXX 600 index closed with the most drastic negative performance in almost a month, due to the unfavourable global sentiment generated after Lael Brainard's statements indicating more aggressive and closer/than-expected interest rate hikes. With eurozone inflation hitting a record high of 7.3% in March, investors are awaiting a tighter monetary policy from the CEd at next week's meeting. The FTSE 100 closed with negative returns after three days of gains, driven by concerns about the Fed's hawkishness, but mainly by exposure to a recession due to the proximity to Russia and newly imposed sanctions. However, losses were limited by gains in AstraZenees and consumer staples stocks. On the German market, the DAX index closed lower, amid expectations of a slower recovery of the German economy due to the effects of the Russian-Ukrainian war and dependence on Russian energy, following the release of lower than expected German factory orders in February. Finally, the French market closed with its worst fall since March 10, due to inflationary pressures in the Eurozone and nervousness about the presidential election on April 10. Thus, FTSE 100 -0.34%; CAC 40 -2.21%; DAX -1.89%; STOXX 600 -1.53% ended with negative performances.

Asia:

Major Asian indices closed with negative returns, where comments on the Fed's stance and the alarming pace of contagions in China weighed on the mood of the session. The Chinese market closed lower as, according to a survey, the Cakin Services Purchasing Managers' index declined to 42.0 due to the most severe wave of COVID-19 contagions since the outbreak in Wuhan. The Hang Segn index ended lower as the outbreak Of COVID-19 contagions in Shanphai persists and the blockage may further damage supply chains. The South Korean market closed in negative territory due to the Fed governor's statements regarding interest rates. She expects a combination of rate hikes and balance sheet reduction to bring monetary policy to a more neutral stance by the end of the year. Japar's NIKKEl closed negative, following the possibility of a slowdown in the outlook for monetary policy following the Fed governor's comments. The Australian market filth is session as the Reserve Bank of Australia is considering raising interest rates for the first time in a decade. A hike is expected starting in June; however, three is no consensus on time pace or limit of the hikes. Thus, NIKKEI -1.58%; HANG SENG -1.87%; CSI 300 -0.25%; SK2P/ASX 200 -0.50%; KOSPI -0.88%, SHANGAI COMPOSITE +0.02% ended with negative returns.
