Global Overview:

United States:

The main U.S. indices were not traded today due to Memorial Day, a holiday commemorating the sacrifice of the lives of millions of U.S. Army troops.

Europe:

The main European indices ended the session with positive returns thanks to the easing of COVID-19 restrictions in China. Authorities in the Chinese commercial center of Shanghai announced that they will ease conditions for work to resume from Wednesday. The pan-European STOXX 600 index ended with gains as Shanghai officials announced an action plan to boost the economy, boosting hopes for improved growth and demand. The British market, reflected in the FTSE 100, ended higher as Shanghai authorities will waive many conditions for companies to resume work, easing a shutdown in the city that began two months ago. For its part, the DAX index closed in positive territory, in a context where the end of the Chinese government's restrictions against COVID-19 weighed on the high domestic inflation rate of 7.9%. Among the causes of the increase were the rise in energy prices since the start of the Russian war against Ukraine, and the disruption of supply chains caused by the pandemic. The French market rose this session thanks to a boost in luxury stocks following the relaxation of measures taken in China to fight the pandemic. These companies are in strong demand from the Asian gant. Thus, FTSE 100 +0.19%; CAC 40 +0.72%; DAX +0.79%; STOXX 600 +0.59% ended at positive levels.

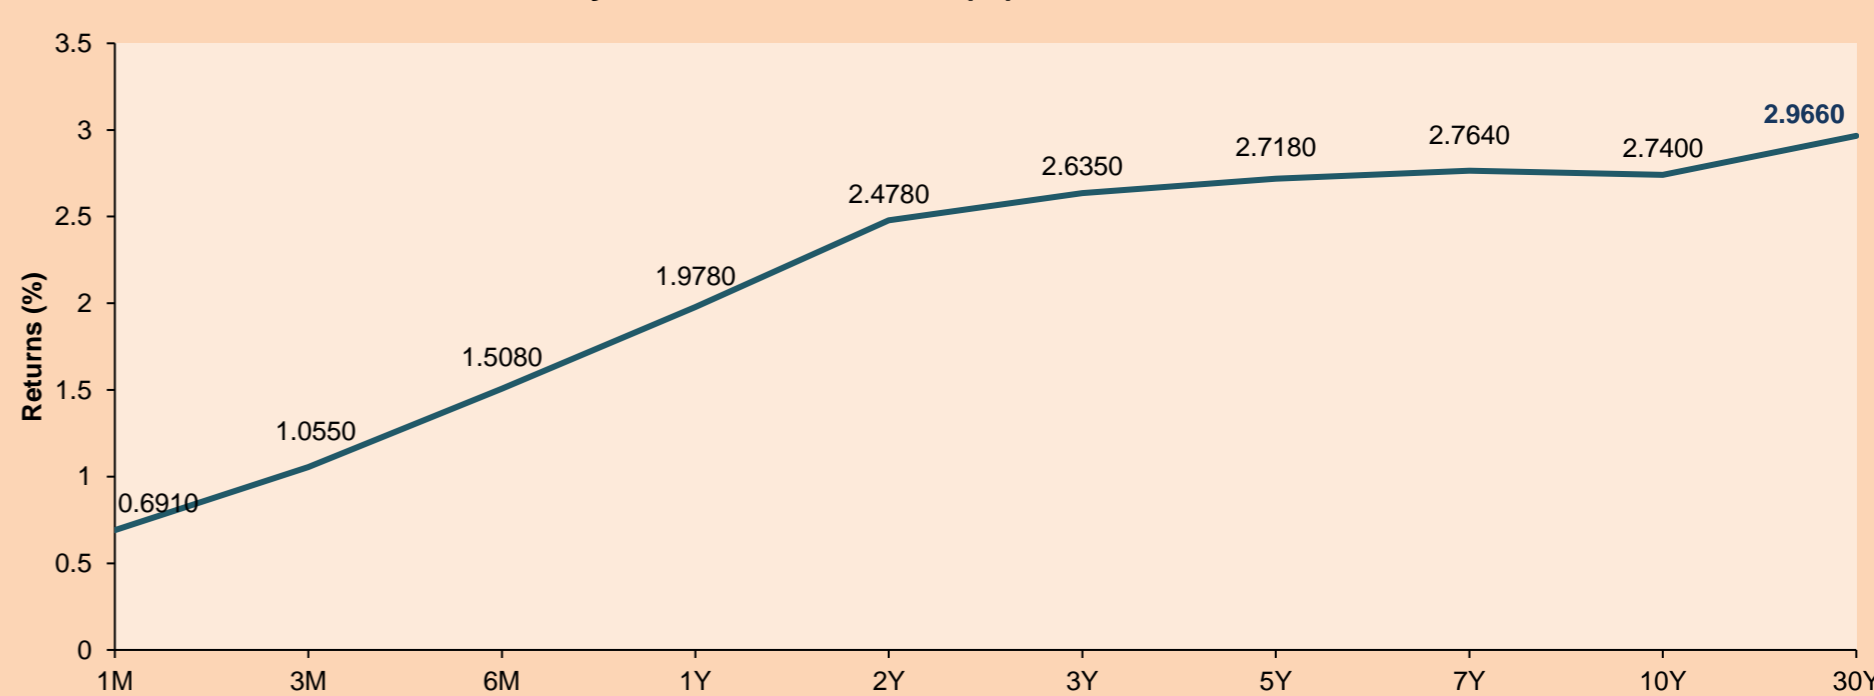

Asia:

Major Asian indices closed with mostly positive returns. The Chinese market closed in positive territory as stocks were buoyed by the easing of the COVID-19 measures in Beijing and the Shanghai financial center. As a result, the consumer and travel-related sectors led today's gains. The Hang Seng index ended with positive returns as the city seeks to accelerate approvals for real estate projects, and the JP Morgan group and Goldman Sachs optimistically indicated that Chinese markets have already hit their lowest point. South Korea's KOSPI rose this session, breaking the record for the government's extra budget, which could be the last round of fiscal support that can be used to counter the impact of the $49.3 billion coronavirus. The Japanese market closed in positive territory after the Bank of Japan found an increase in wages, increasing them by 2% on a yearly basis. This increase would indicate that it is keeping pace with consumer prices. The Australian market finished higher after stock pairs rallied on Friday, which generated optimism for a stable economy on signs of inflation peaking and resilient consumer spending. Thus, NIKKEI +2.19%; HANG SENG +2.06%; CSI 300 +0.69%; S&P/ASX 200 +1.45%; KOSPI +1.20%, SHANGAI COMPOSITE +0.60% ended with positive returns.
