Global Overview:

United States:

The US market closes with positive returns. The DOW JONES index closed in positive territory in a scenario where interest rates rose by 75 basis points, the largest increase since 1994; also, Fed Chairman Jerome Powell indicated that officials could move by the same amount again next month. The S&P500 index also ended with a significantly positive performance, in a scenario where oil prices fell after the interest rate hike, even though this may lead to an economic slowdown. In the early session, U.S. crude oil production reached 12 million barrels per day for the first time since the start of the pandemic. Also, there is still angst about the bear market thesis. Finally, the NASDAQ index managed to end the session with a favorable performance in a context where Powell indicated that it is still possible for the Central Bank to have a soft landing, where inflation is controlled without the presence of recession. Powell also announced that the unemployment rate will increase to 4.1% by 2024 from the current 3.6%. Also, for this increase, the increase in people out of work would be an achievement, as it would leave rates at historic low levels. Thus, DOW JONES +1.00%; S&P 500 +1.46%; NASDAQ +2.50% ended the day with mostly positive results.

Europe:

Los principales índices europeos terminaron la sesión con rendimientos positivos. El índice paneuropeo STOXX 600 cerró al alza este miércoles, en un contexto en el cual el Banco Central Europeo anuncio medidas para disminuir la caída del mercado de renta fija, pese a que algunos inversionistas esperaban acciones más decisivas por parte de esta autoridad. El FTSE 100 también cerró con rendimientos en terreno positivo, a pesar de que los inversionistas estuvieron a la espera del anuncio de la tasa de política monetaria de la FED que podría provocar una recesión. En concreto, las ganancias en este índice se debieron principalmente a valores financieros fundamentados por resultados favorables de compañías como WH Smith. Asimismo, los inversionistas esperan que el BoE aumente la tasa en 25 puntos básicos mañana y para las siguientes reuniones. Respecto al mercado alemán, el índice DAX cerró con rendimientos similares, siguiendo la dinámica de los demás países europeos tras el anuncio del BCE para establecer políticas que brinden soporte a los bonos de países más débiles de la Eurozona. Por último, el mercado francés cerró también al alza, rebotando después de haber caído durante 6 días. Para ser más específicos, AXA y Societe Generale subieron 2.97% y 2.86%; mientras que otras empresas tecnológicas como Worldline y STMicroelectronics, ambas subieron 3.72%. De este modo, FTSE 100 +1.20%; CAC 40 +1.35%; DAX +1.36%; STOXX 600 1.42% terminaron con rendimientos positivos.

Asia:

Major Asian indices closed with mostly mixed performances. The Chinese market closed in positive territory thanks to better-than-expected economic data after a month hampered by COVID controls. Industrial production rose 0.7% in May on a yearly basis, against expectations of a 0.7% decline. The Hang Seng index finished higher after data showed industrial production unexpectedly rose in May, although consumption data remained weaker as shoppers were confined to their homes in Shanghai and other cities. The South Korean market fell this session amid a backdrop where a majority of Bank of Korea board members felt the priority should be to fight inflation when they raised interest rates by 25 bps, minutes of their recent meeting showed Tuesday. The Japanese market closed in negative territory on market certainty that the Fed will raise rates by 75 bps, the largest increase since 1984, a move that many fear could trigger a recession. The Australian market ended lower after Reserve Bank of Australia Governor Philip Lowe warned that inflation could reach 7% by the end of the year, up from his previous forecast of 5.9%. Thus, NIKKEI -1.14%; HANG SENG +1.14%; CSI 300 +1.32%; S&P/ASX 200 -1.27%; KOSPI -1.83%; SHANGHAI COMPOSITE +0.50% ended with mixed performances.
