Global Overview

United States:

The US stock market closed the day with positive results in its main indices. Stock indices such as the Dow Jones or the S & P 500 had gains, as concerns about tax cuts decreased. Both indices closed the day in "record" territory, with all sectors positive, especially in basic products and health, which had gains close to +1%. Tax policy continued to influence markets, as investors became more cautious after Florida Sen. Marco Rubio told Senate leaders that he would vote against the new tax law unless it includes further expansion of the tax credit. Several Republican senators expressed doubts about the new tax law that is expected to be put to a final vote next week, according to the Wall Street Journal. Expectations of tax cuts and a review of US tax policies have helped boost stock markets this year and if the bill is not approved, it could end the current rise, analysts said. Regarding companies, the Oracle Corp (ORCL) company fell by close to -4.7% after delivering disappointing numbers in the growth of its cloud business. On the other hand, Adobe Systems Inc. (ADBE) and Under Armor Inc. (UA) won today, the first to beat forecasts in their earnings and the second to announce an official partnership with Team Canada until 2024.

Europe:

The stock market closed the market with negative results in most of its shares. European shares ended downwards due to declines in retail and banking stocks. The European benchmark index "Stoxx 600", with the technology and services sectors down, recording its lowest close in a week. In addition, the euro traded higher against the dollar at $ 1.1791 above the $ 1.1778 on Thursday. These negative results partly explain the losses in retail stocks led by Hennes & Mauritz (H & M). Its shares fell the most since 2001, after a disappointing fourth-quarter sales report, which fell to 50.39 billion euros ($ 6 billion), while analysts surveyed by FactSet expected 54.07 billion euros. At the same time, Salvatore Ferragamo SpA, the luxury goods retailer, collapsed due to concerns about its business outlook. This caused the retail sales index "Stoxx Europe 600 Retail Index" to fall close to -2.25%. Regarding the United Kingdom, the Prime Minister, Theresa May, had a legislative defeat when the lower house of the United Kingdom voted to amend the Brexit bill to give members of parliament the power to reject the final divorce agreement reached with Brussels. According to reports, on Thursday she said she was "disappointed" by the vote, but that the UK is still on track to leave the European Union in 2019.

Asia:

The main stock indices in Asia closed the day with negative results, after the fall of the US and European indices. However, the South Korean index, Kospi closed up +0.51% recovering from Thursday's loss that analysts attributed to the quarterly expiration of index and futures options. Such maturities sometimes result in a strong exchange as institutional investors unravel or rollover. On the Japan side, Nikkei, fell for the fourth consecutive session on Friday, as new doubts about US tax-cut plans overrode a robust business confidence survey. In addition, the Bank of Japan published a quarterly survey "Tankan" just before the opening bell, which shows the confidence among the main manufacturers in a maximum of 11 years. Strong sales continued to affect telecom operators, as online trade giant Rakuten said it wanted to establish its own mobile operator in Japan, raising concerns that competition would intensify. Finally in India, equities received a boost from exit polls suggesting that the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party will remain in power in the state of Gujarat and overthrow the opposition in Himachal Pradesh.
