Global Overview:

United States:

The US stock market closed on Tuesday with positive results among its main indices, so the S&P 500 rose + 0.64%, while the DJIA and the Nasdaq Comp increased + 0.45% and + 0.65% respectively. In this way the cycle of 4 consecutive days of losses for the S&P 500 and the DJIA is over. Also, the gains of the first index in mention were the majors of the last three weeks, this favored by a rebound of the Turkish lira after that the Central bank of the Asian country took measures to alleviate the collapse of its currency. In this way, all the sectors that make up the SPX closed upwards, highlighting the consumer sectors and the financial sector. The actions of the main US banks also reversed the negative effect on their price after alleviating fears of possible financial contagion from the Turkish crisis. On the other hand, investors remained attentive to the results of the second quarter. So far, of the 458 SPX companies that have published results, 79% have exceeded Wall Street estimates. In business news, the share price of Grocer Kroger Co rose +2.4% after announcing that it would partner with Alibaba Group to sell its products on the T-mall platform of the e-commerce giant.

Europe:

The European market closed the day with negative returns among its main indices, in a context where European stocks have been selling due to fears about the possible contagion of Turkey's financial problems. The FTSE 100 ended -0.40% disadvantaged by the sectors of Telecommunications Service (-1.36%) and Real Estate (-0.95%). The Britain's unemployment rate fell to its minimum in 43 years, being 4%, and also shows an annual fall in the number of employees in the country since 1997, continuing the trend expected after the vote to leave the European Union in 2016, being of 2.3 million; on the other hand, shares of copper miner Antofagasta had an impact on the index due to the impact of tariff tensions between the United States and its trading partners. The CAC 40 fell 0.16%, highlighting that the France's unemployment rate fell to 9.1% which allows the President of France, Emmanuel Macron, to discuss the revision of the labor laws of the country; while the DAX 30 did not change from the close of the previous day (+ 0.00%) despite the fact that Germany's economic growth accelerated in the second quarter driven by domestic demand, with household d and government spending of higher increase, but that the commercial tensions and the monetary crisis of Turkey are clouding the expectations of the companies.

Asia:

The Asian stock market ended today's session with mixed results among its main indices. The Japanese benchmark index, the Nikkei 225, closed at + 2.8% its biggest daily variation since March 27 this year and bounced back to the index of a minimum value of five weeks. A pause in the appreciation of the Yen, currency of refuge for investors, gave a reprieve to Japanese companies that repatriated their profits from abroad and that with concern observed decreasing the value of their profits in foreign currency due to the increase in the value of the Yen. The performance of the index was boosted by shares of companies in the Telecommunications sector (+ 3.43%) and Discretionary Consumer Products (+ 2.81%), among which stands out Fast Retailing Co Ltd, a company dedicated to the design, production and marketing of clothing, which varied by + 4.01% during the day today. The Japanese Topix index that groups 2091 shares, closed at + 1.63% with all sectors up. On the contrary, the Hang Seng index of Hong Kong closed downwards by -0.66% due to greater signs of cooling in the Chinese economy and accumulated three sessions to the downside. Likewise, the Shanghai Composite index closed at -0.18% driven by lower half-yearly expansion of fixed assets investment (5.5% YoY vs 6% forecasted) while the stock of HNA Infrastructure Investment closed at -9.96%, the highest fall of the index.
