Global Overview:

United States:

The US market closed the day with its indexes negative. The index which fell the most was the Dow Jones (-0.46%) due to the sectors of energy (-1.43%) and materials (-6.11%), product to a drop-in oil prices due to fears of oversupply and in the second case, shares of DowDuPont Inc. (chemical producer) fell by 6.73%, as it reported lower than predicted sales and shares of Kellogg Co. fell 3.4% after announcing changes in their management. Among the stocks that rose, highlighted Beyond Meat Inc., producer of vegetarian burgers, which soared 160% on its debut in the market, due to the expectation of investors about changes in the consumption behavior of people favorable towards the company. The comments of the president of the FED, Jerome Powell, eliminating the hopes of a reduction in interest rates in the current year, indicating that the slowdown in inflation was due to temporary factors, influenced the day. Finally, after the earnings reporting season ended, investors are waiting for the development of the US-China talks, as well as the payroll report for the non-agricultural sector in the United States.

Europe:

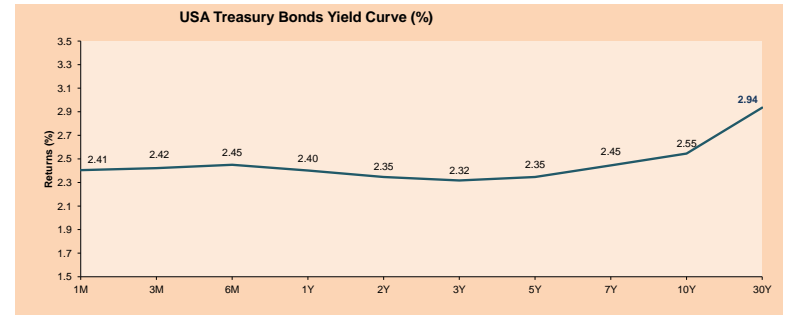

The European market closed down, with the exception of the DAX, which ended with slight gains of 0.01%. The FTSE 100 ended -0.46%, after the Bank of England (BOE), led by Mark Carney, kept interest rates unchanged at 0.75%. In addition, the entity revised its economic growth forecast for 2019 to 1.5%, since it is expected that GDP growth in the first quarter will have increased 0.5%. In news from Brexit, talks between the parliament and the opposition Labour Party are on track to make a new proposal, indicating that the scenario of UK exit without agreement is more improbable. In other news, the activity of factories in the Eurozone contracted for the third month in April, according to IHS Markit, affected by weak global demand and increased trade protectionism. In corporate news, sales of SUVs and cost cuts helped Volkswagen cancel a legal charge of £1 billion to meet the operating profits of the 1Q. In addition, the company expects to increase sales of such vehicles by around 40% by 2020. On the other hand, BNP Paribas reported a net income of £1.2 billion for the first three months of the year, an increase of 22% compared to the previous period of 2018.

Asia:

The Asian market finished the day with mixed results, while the main markets in China and Japan are closed for holidays. However, the Hong Kong market remained open during the date, with its Hang Seng index (+0.83%) highlighting the positive results of the date. However, it should be emphasized that the local economy was not entirely successful. Thanks to the published data, Hong Kong reported its slowest growth during the last 10 years for the first quarter of 2019, where the results do not reach the estimates made by the regional government, mainly affected by the deceleration of exports and foreign investment. According to Reuters analysts, a government spokesperson said: "Total exports of goods and services weakened more in the first quarter, similar to the situation that other Asian economies are facing, but, it is expected that the tourism sector can continue to support to the balance sheets". On the other hand, according to the N18 News portal, Jet Airways (-12.5%), still can't find bidders and the executives of the company believe that the company would enter bankruptcy proceedings. The airline, once considered the largest in India, was forced to stop all flight operations on April 17, after its lenders refused to extend more funds to keep the airline running.
