Global Overview:

United States:

The US markets closed today with mixed results, while the expectation of the results of the next trade talk between the US and China remains. The S&P 500 (-0.01%) and the NASDAQ Composite (-0.19%) ended down; on the other hand, the DJIA (+0.14%) ended up, among other indexes. The market remains eager to reach new highs, and this may happen soon, as long as the trade war continues its recent favorable development with the October talks between US and Chinese officials. The S&P has had positive impulses in August. This index is approximately 1.7% of its maximum at the end of July, currently being driven by the strength of technology and consumer discretionary stocks. Of these two, technology has high expectations of carrying the market up. In addition, there are other positive aspects for the stocks, including a possible reduction in interest rates, the flexibility of the Central Bank and a recovery of some economic data. On the other hand, and in line with the positive market expectations, gold futures ended down, returning previous earnings to extend their losses to a third consecutive session.

Europe:

The European market closed the day down. The pan-European index STOXX 600 fell -0.28%, affected by the general fall in the shares of the travel and leisure sector, in the case of Air France (+0.77%) the stock fell because the company reported disappointing results in August; on the other hand, the price of IAG (Holding of British Airways) lost -1.54% in the beginning of a protest of 48 hours by the pilots, that already has affected numerous flights. In corporate news, the automotive manufacturer, Ferrari (+1.48%), presented two new models of convertible supercars, at a juncture in which the company seeks to maintain its high sales growth rates (2018: 10.2%) and bring its margins over 38%, without harming the exclusivity of the brand in the sector. In economic news, Germany reported a surprise increase of 0.7% monthly in export value, which contrasts with the forecast of analysts, who expected a 0.5% drop. In spite of this favorable data, the president of the chamber of industry and commerce, Volker Treier, expects a negative performance in the following months, due to an uncertain scenario regarding Brexit, and the commercial war.

Asia:

The Asian market closed the session with positive results. The main indexes, such as the Nikkei 225, Hang Seng and ASX, had a yield of +0.56%, -0.04% and +0.01 respectively. China has shown problems with its exports since customs data saw a significant drop of -1%, which points to greater weakness in the world's second largest economy. Likewise, Japan's gross domestic product, in the quarter from April to June, registered an annualized growth of 1.3%. The lack of data now increases expectations that Beijing can introduce more stimulus measures to underpin its economy. For this reason, the People's Bank of China (PBOC) announced Friday that it will cut the amount of funds that lenders must keep in reserve (reserve rate) by 50 basis points and that it would reduce even more (by 100 basis points) for some banks qualified. In other news, Nissan's CEO, Saikawa, announced his resignation scheduled for September 16 as he admitted to receiving additional money that did not belong to him. The companies with the best returns of the day were Rakuten Inc (+4.17%) and Taisei Corp. (+3.45%) in the Nikkei and Orocobre Ltd index (+5.56%) and TPG Telecom Ltd (+5.45%) by the ASX index.
