Global Overview:

United States:

The U.S. market closes with positive returns ahead of the Fed's announcement that it will cut its monthly bond purchases in November with plans to end them in 2022. Investors had widely anticipated the decision as the Fed is withdrawing its monetary support as the economy recovers from the coronavirus pandemic. The S&P 500 and NASDAQ posted record closes for the fifth consecutive session, while the DOW JONES posted a record close for the fourth consecutive session. The DOW JONES index closed in positive territory, finding support from Wallgreens, up +3.10%, and Nike, up +2.78%. The drugstore chain announced that it now allows appointments to vaccinate children ages 5 to 11 against COVID-19, while Nike teamed up with Dick's Sporting Goods to increase its reach and provide exclusive products, experiences and offers. Meanwhile, the S&P 500 finished higher on better-than-expected third-quarter earnings. With about 360 companies reporting, S&P 500 earnings are expected to have risen 40.4% this quarter from a year earlier, according to Refinitiv IBES. Finally, the NASDAQ index ended with gains as FAT Brands Class B shares rose +99.23%. These rose almost 200% and were halted after the announcement of the purchase of Fazoli's with DOW JONES +0.29%; S&P 500 +0.65%; NASDAQ +1.04% ended the day with positive results.

Europe

The main European indices ended the session with mostly positive returns, mainly due to the FED meeting, which is expected to reduce its monthly bond purchase plan by USD 120 billion, as well as its termination by mid-2022, because of the progressive improvement of the US economy and the rebound in inflation. The pan-European STOXX 600 index closed +0.35%, as commodity prices related to oil and gas fell by -0.3%. The UK market ended lower, due to a fall in oil-related stocks with a high weighting in the index. Negative returns were also due to uncertainty over the Bank of England's monetary policy meeting, which will be held on Thursday. Meanwhile, the German DAX index finished slightly higher on the back of statements by European Central Bank President Christine Lagarde about the unlikelihood of an interest rate hike by 2022. Similarly, France's CAC40 closed higher, reaching a new all-time high on the back of low interest rates and the injection of money to curb the adverse economic effects of the pandemic. Thus, FTSE 100 -0.36%; CAC 40 +0.34%; DAX +0.03%; STOXX 600 +0.35% ended with mixed performances.

Asia:

Major Asian indices closed in negative territory as short-term sovereign yields fell ahead of the latest policy decision from the US Federal Reserve. Investors also took in the latest economic data from China. The Chinese market closed in negative territory after the Caixin Services Purchasing Managers Index was 53.8 for October, slightly higher than the 53.4 registered during the previous month. In turn, the Chinese premier warned that the economy is facing further downward pressure amid a call to ensure that there is an adequate supply of winter food when stocking up on basic goods. The most affected sectors were Information Technology -1.32%, Basic Products -1.18% and Non-Basic Consumer Products -0.41%. On the other hand, the Hong Kong market closed with negative returns thanks to the drop in sovereign yields, which affected the Information Technology -3.04%, Health -1.25% and Energy -1.02% sectors. Meanwhile, the Japanese market remained closed. Finally, the Australian market closed with gains thanks to the restrained statement from the Reserve Bank of Australia on its policy decision. The sectors with the highest earnings of the day were Materials +1.44%, Finance +1.23% and Basic Products +1.00%. Thus, NIKKEI -0.43%; HANG SENG -0.30%; CSI 300 -0.39%; S & P / ASX 200 +0.93%; SHANGHAI COMPOSITE -0.20% ended with negative returns.
