Global Overview:

United States:

The US market closed with negative yields. The DOW JONES index closed lower, due to fears about the unemployment data to be released tomorrow. However, the number of unemployment benefits exceeded market expectations. Among stocks, shares of SVB Financial fell 60.4% after the company planned to raise $2 billion to help offset losses from bond sales. The S&P 500 index also ended with losses. Investors weighed Jerome Powell's hawkish comments while also being concerned about tomorrow's payrolls report. The market, given the latest data and its trends, expects at least two more interest rate hikes, being 50 basis points each, if employment and inflation data continue to rise. Finally, the NASDAQ index ended with negative returns. Regarding job cuts published by employers, the technology sector announced 35% of all job cuts in 2023. So far, around 30,000 jobs have been cut, and 180,000 are planned for the end of the year, in order to cool the economy. Thus, DOW JONES -1.66%, S&P 500 -1.85% and NASDAQ - 2.05% ended the day with negative results.

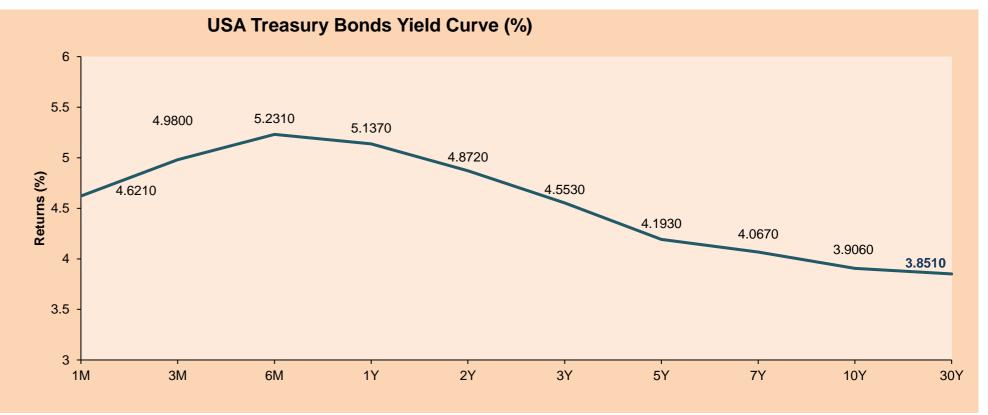

Europe:

Major European indices ended the session with mostly negative returns, as European stocks were dragged down by mining, real estate, and other equities. Investors are also increasingly concerned about the prospect of continued interest rate hikes. The pan-European STOXX 600 index closed with losses after closing higher in the previous session, mainly on comments from Fed Chairman Jerome Powell. Real estate stocks were down 1.7% after copper prices fell, and with respect to individual stocks Hugo Boss fell 2.2% and Credit Suisse lost 3.7%, while Deutch Post rose 1.2%. The British market, reflected in the FTSE 100, closed with negative results, dragged down by losses in the heavy materials sector. Domestically, the British Chambers of Commerce forecast that the UK economy would contract less than expected this year. Among individual stocks Rio Tinto suffered with a fall of more than 4%. Likewise, reflected in the DAX index, the German market closed with barely any gains as it awaited the speech of the US Fed Chairman. On the corporate side, Germany's LEG Immobilien fell more than 11% as the real estate firm suspended its dividend. The French market closed lower as investors refrained from taking large positions ahead of a decisive U.S. jobs report. Industrial, financial and luxury stocks also posted significant losses. Thus, FTSE 100 -0.63%; CAC 40 +0.12%; DAX +0.01%; STOXX 600 -0.22% ended at mostly negative levels.

Asia:

Major Asian indices closed with mixed performances, as mainland stock markets came under pressure after Beijing set a modest growth target for China this year. The Chinese market ended with negative returns as investors reacted to data showing that China's inflation rate had fallen to one-year lows in February, meaning that economic activity remains weak. In line, the Hang Seng index closed lower as U.S. stock futures fell following a series of economic data on Wednesday supporting Fed Chairman Powell's hawkish guidance on further interest rate hikes. The South Korean market ended negative, driven mainly by a 0.6% drop in private consumption (vs. +1.7% in Q3), lower spending on durable goods (appliances, clothing and footwear) and services (restaurants and accommodation). The Japanese market closed higher, as investors await the Bank of Japan's policy decision on Friday, in what would be the last meeting of the Bank's governor, Haruhiko Kuroda. In addition, private consumption remains subdued, supporting the need to maintain massive stimulus. The Australian market ended higher after Reserve Bank of Australia Governor Philip Lowe said Wednesday that the central bank is closer to reaching a pause point in interest rate hikes as monetary policy has turned tight. Thus, NIKKEI +0.63%; HANG SENG -0.63%; CSI 300 -0.35%; S&P/ASX 200 +0.05%; KOSPI -0.53%, SHANGHAI COMPOSITE -0.22% ended with mixed performances.
