WORLD

United States:

The U.S. market is closed for President's Day.

Europe:

Major European indices ended Monday's session with mixed performances. The pan-European STOXX 600 index closed positive, as investors prepare for a busy week ahead of key data releases such as the Eurozone's preliminary PMI index and final inflation figures. The UK market, reflected in the FTSE 100 closed with a slightly positive performance, reaching its highest level so far this year, as markets continued to assess the latest corporate developments to gauge how companies are adapting to tighter monetary policy. On the other hand, the German market reflected in the DAX index closed in negative territory, where investors are preparing for a relatively quiet week, focused on key releases such as the Eurozone PMI indices, the German Ifo report on business morale, the minutes of the European Central Bank and US Federal Reserve meetings, and Nvidia's results. The main index of the Paris stock exchange ended the session in neutral, after a day of thin trading due to the closure of the US markets for the President's Day holiday. Thus, FTSE 100 +0.01%; CAC 40 +0.00%; DAX -0.15%; STOXX 600 +0.16% ended with positive levels.

Asia:

The main Asian indices started the week with mixed performances. The Chinese market closed positively, extending gains since early February post-Lunar New Year holidays. Tourism revenue in China during the Lunar New Year holidays increased by 47.3%, while the People's Bank of China kept its medium-term lending rate unchanged. Technology stocks led the advancement, with notable gains from various sector companies. Hong Kong's Hang Seng index ended with losses after three days of gains, due to profit-taking after reaching a six-week high last week. Caution prevailed before the Chinese central bank's decision on key lending rates. Rate cuts were expected following reserve requirement reductions and a pause in the medium-term lending facility. Consumer, property, and technology sectors led losses, although spending reports in China during the Lunar New Year limited the decline. Notable losers include Sunshine Insurance Group and Li Ning Co. The South Korean market had positive results due to purchases by foreign investors totaling around 607.6 trillion won (approximately $454 million). Despite low trading volume, foreign operator activity was a key factor in the positive performance of the South Korean market. In Japan, the Nikkei index ended with slight gains, but caution prevailed due to global interest rate cut prospects. Investors assessed machinery order data in Japan and saw losses in technology stocks, with Nintendo falling 5.8% on reports of delays in its next console. The Australian market also closed with a 0.09% increase, led by the banking and mining sectors. Westpac Banking, Commonwealth Bank, and QBE Insurance recorded gains, while A2 Milk stood out with a 12.5% increase after surpassing revenue and earnings expectations in the first half of fiscal year 2024. Therefore, NIKKEI -0.04%; HANG SENG -1.13%; CSI 300 +1.16%; S&P/ASX 200 +0.09%; KOSPI +1.19%; SHANGHAI COMPOSITE +1.56% closed with mixed performances.
