United States:

The US market closed with positive results. The DOW JONES index closed on a positive note as markets analyzed the latest data available on the strength of the US economy and the outlook for the Federal Reserve's monetary policy. Among the data released was that the number of workers on payrolls will likely be revised downward by 818,000 for the year ending in March, or about 68,000 fewer each month, according to the BLS' preliminary benchmark revision, adding to concerns about a weaker labor market. The S&P 500 index closed in positive territory after the latest minutes showed signs of rate cuts by FOMC members after signaling that a September cut is likely appropriate, reinforcing expectations that the Fed will implement rate cuts of 100 basis points or more in its remaining three decisions this year. Finally, the NASDAQ finished slightly in the green. On the corporate front, Target rose 11.2% on the back of strong second quarter results, but Macy's fell 12.9% after lowering its guidance. Thus, the DOW JONES +0.14%, the S&P 500 +0.42% and the NASDAQ +0.57% ended with positive returns.

Europe:

The main European indices closed in positive territory as investors continued to analyze the economic outlook and possible future credit costs. In addition, gains were led by consumer cyclical companies such as Hermes, Ferrari and Adidas, with increases of between 3% and 1.2%. The British market, reflected in the FTSE 100, closed with gains led by the mining sector, with Rio Tinto, Fresnillo, Glencore and Anglo American rising more than 1%. On the other hand, Entain, the sports betting giant, also rose more than 1.5%. Among other news, it was revealed that UK public sector borrowing in July reached £3.1 billion, exceeding expectations. Similarly, the German market closed in positive territory after a brief pause in its streak of ten consecutive days of gains. The sector that led the gains was the automotive sector with Porsche, BMW, Mercedes and Volkswagen rising between 2.5% and 0.5%. Adidas and BASF also contributed to the index's rise with increases of close to 2% each, while Airbus and Allianz posted smaller increases. Finally, the main index of the Paris Stock Exchange rose after investors were cautious as they awaited the minutes of the U.S. Federal Reserve's July meeting. Among the leading stocks, Pernod Ricard led with a gain of 2.9%, while Renault, ArcelorMittal, Unibail-Rodamco-Westfield and L'Oréal rose between 1.4% and 1.8%. Thus, FTSE 100 +0.12%; CAC 40 +0.52%; DAX +0.50%; STOXX X 600 +0.33% ended with positive performances.

Asia:

The main Asian indices closed with mixed performances. The Chinese market ended the session with losses. The People's Bank of China left the one- and five-year prime lending rates unchanged at 3.45% and 3.85%, respectively, in line with expectations. In addition, the latest data indicated that bank lending in China fell more than anticipated in July, reaching its lowest level in almost 15 years. The financial sector was the hardest hit, with declines in ICBC (-4%), Agricultural Bank (-1%) and China Merchants Bank (-0.7%). The South Korean market, as measured by the Kospi index, closed with gains. Domestically, producer inflation in South Korea rose to 2.6% in July, the highest level since 2023, compared to 2.5% in June, while business confidence fell to 71 in August from 73 the previous month, marking its lowest level since March. In Hong Kong, the Hang Seng index closed in the red. Declines were recorded in the real estate, financial and consumer sectors after Chinese exchanges suspended daily reports of foreign inflows into domestic equities or from Hong Kong via Stock Connect, limiting them to quartile reports. In Japan, the Nikkei index closed with losses, which was due to a resumption of yen strengthening, putting pressure on domestic equities. On the economic front, data indicated an increase in Japan's trade deficit in July, with exports growing less than expected and imports accelerating. In the Australian market, returns were positive. Logistics software company Wisetech Global soared 17.9% after reporting strong annual earnings, raising its dividend and forecasting faster earnings growth for the current fiscal year. Brambles also jumped 9.1% after the pallet company announced plans to repurchase $500 million worth of shares in fiscal 2025. In summary, NIKKEI -0.35%; HANG SENG -0.69%; CSI 300 -0.33%; S&P/ASX 200 +0.16%; KOSPI +0.17%; SHANGHAI COMPOSITE -0.35% ended with mixed performances.
