WORLD

United States:

The U.S. market closed with mixed results. The DOW JONES finished nearly flat amid concerns over rising interest rates and mixed earnings results. Uncertainty persists as the market weighs the Federal Reserve's rate-cutting pace against a resilient economy and increasing fiscal deficits. The S&P 500 also ended nearly flat, with sectors like consumer products rising while industrials lagged, as GE Aerospace dropped 8.1% due to supply issues. Homebuilders also faced difficulties, with rate-sensitive stocks like Lennar and D.R. Horton falling more than 3%. Treasury reached 4.22%, the highest level since July, before retreating slightly as traders reassessed the Federal Reserve's rate trajectory. Finally, the NASDAQ ended the day in positive territory. Major earnings movers included General Motors, which rose 9.8% after beating estimates, while Verizon dropped 5% on disappointing revenue, and Lockheed Martin fell 6.2% following disappointing sales. Traders are closely watching upcoming earnings reports from Tesla, Coca-Cola, and Honeywell. Thus, DOW JONES -0.02%, S&P 500 -0.05%, NASDAQ +0.18%, with the market showing mixed results.

Europe:

The main European indices closed with negative returns. The pan-European STOXX 600 index closed with losses, as hopes for a rapid interest rate cut by the Federal Reserve diminished. At the same time, traders are focusing on corporate earnings. In the UK market, the FTSE index closed the session negative, following the recent sell-off in gilts across the curve, as markets watch for the prospect of a less dovish Fed. Rising borrowing costs led developers and property security holders to lead losses on the LSE, with Persimmon, Land Securities, British Land and Taylor Wimpey falling between 0.6% and 1.5%. Similarly, the German market closed in the red, continuing a 1% decline from the previous day. Major companies such as Siemens, Deutsche Telekom and Allianz saw their shares fall by between 0.6% and 1.7%. In contrast, SAP shares rose by 2.4% following good third-quarter results and an upbeat outlook for the full year. In the French market, the session closed in the red, tempered by pessimism on corporate news and expectations of a soft rate cut by the Federal Reserve. Investors also digested corporate news and results. Eurofins Scientific plunged 11.5% after reaffirming its 2024 targets amid post-pandemic challenges and refuting Muddy Waters' allegations of old trades. Thus, STOXX 600 -0.21%; FTSE 100 -0.14%; DAX -0.20%; CAC 40 -0.01% closed with negative returns.

Asia:

Major Asian indices closed with mixed performances. The Chinese market closed positive, as Chinese stocks rallied on recent government stimulus measures, including the reduction of interest rates by 25 basis points and the implementation of a 50 billion yuan swap mechanism to support stock market activity. These actions seek to revive the economy, following concerns about the lack of more aggressive fiscal policies. Among the outstanding companies were East Money Information, Oifilm Group and Tianfeng Securities, with notable rises. The South Korean market closed negative, following losses on Wall Street due to rising Treasury yields on U.S. economic strength and inflation fears. Locally, investors await South Korea's preliminary GDP estimates for the third quarter, with expectations of an export-led recovery. Producer inflation in September slowed to 1% y-o-y, the lowest level since November 2023. On the other hand, the Hang Seng Index is in positive territory, driven by the technology and consumer sectors, recovering after a previous decline. The optimism stems from recent moves by the People's Bank of China, which cut interest rates by 25 basis points to support the economy. Also notable was an increase in the conversion of foreign currencies into yuan by Chinese companies and an increase in purchases of local shares by foreign investors. The Japanese market also closed in negative territory. In Japan, investors were cautious amid political uncertainty ahead of the weekend's general election and awaiting corporate results. In addition, the movement of the yen, which recently surpassed 150 to the dollar, was closely watched. Technology stocks led losses, highlighted by Lasertec, Advantest, Tokyo Electron, SoftBank Group and Hitachi. The Australian market ended negative. The decline followed losses on Wall Street, and in Australia, investors were watching the latest PMI reports to gauge the strength of the economy. Mining and banking stocks led losses, with BHP Group, Mineral Resources, Fortescue, Commonwealth Bank and Macquarie Group among the hardest hit. Technology stocks, such as Xero and NextDC, also suffered declines. Thus, NIKKEI +1.39%; HANG SENG -0.1%; CSI 300 -2.66%; S&P/ASX 200 -1.66%; KOSPI -1.31%; SHANGHAI COMPOSITE +0.54% ended with mixed performances.
