United States:

The US market closed with negative returns. The DOW JONES closed in the red as declines in banks overshadowed gains in technology stocks. Bank of America and Wells Fargo fell 1.7% and 1.3%, respectively, while Morgan Stanley and Goldman Sachs retreated 2%. The S&P 500 index finished in the red. The University of Michigan consumer survey indicated that both sentiment and expectations have been revised upward, while inflation expectations were adjusted downward. Finally, the NASDAQ index ended the day in the green. Technology majors such as Microsoft, Alphabet, Meta and Amazon were up between 0.8% and 1.5% ahead of their upcoming earnings reports. In addition, Nvidia and TSMC ADRs rose 0.8% and 6.9%, respectively, extending gains in the semiconductor sector. Thus, DOW JONES -0.61%, S&P 500 -0.03% and NASDAQ +0.56% ended with negative results.

Europe:

The main European indices ended the session with mixed performances. The pan-European STOXX 600 closed flat as a variety of corporate earnings led almost all sectors to trade in a mixed fashion, while investors continued to assess the latest economic data for clues on the ECB's policy outlook. The UK market, represented by the FTSE 100, closed in the red, capping off a mostly negative week as third-quarter earnings reports intensified ahead of the upcoming budget from the new government. Airtel Africa saw a significant drop of 5%, hitting its lowest level since early September due to a double-digit decline in half-year operating profit. The German market closed higher, reflecting a general cautious mood in Europe, as investors digested the latest batch of corporate earnings and awaited upcoming economic releases. Shares of Mercedes-Benz fell around 1% following disappointing results, with its net profit halved VW (-0.4%), BMW (-0.6%), and Continental (-2.5%) were also under pressure. The French market, represented by the CAC 40, closed nearly flat, recording a weekly loss of 1.5% after two consecutive weeks of gains, as traders evaluated the latest corporate earnings. Vinci led the declines, with its shares dropping 3% to a two-month low after reporting a Q3 revenue increase but warning that potential new French tax measures could impact profits. Thus, the FTSE 100 -0.25%, CAC 40 -0.08%, DAX +0.11%, and STOXX 600 -0.03% all ended with mixed results.

Asia:

Major Asian indices closed with mostly positive returns. The Chinese market closed positive as investors continued to assess the impact of Beijing's stimulus measures on the economy and markets. Investors also awaited policy signals from China at the upcoming meeting of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress. Meanwhile, the People's Bank of China left the one-year interest rate on the medium-term lending facility unchanged at 2% at its October meeting, following a record low in the previous month. In the Hong Kong market, the Hang Seng index closed in the green. Automobile stocks posted solid gains, led by Geely Auto (8.5%), Li Auto (5.1%) and BYD Electronic (4.3%), along with pharmaceutical stocks such as WuXi Biologics (6.3%) and Hansoh Pharmaceutical (3.5%). The South Korean market ended on a positive note, with financial stocks leading the market, following encouraging corporate results. Wall Street's overnight rally also helped lift market sentiment. Among financial stocks, KB Financial soared 8.3% to an all-time high after above-consensus Q3 results. The Japanese market closed lower as investors prepared for Japan's general election this weekend, in which the coalition government could lose its majority in parliament. Markets were also bracing for a slew of corporate results to be released in the coming weeks. Meanwhile, data showed that Tokyo's core inflation, a leading indicator of nationwide price trends, slowed to a six-month low of 1.8% in October, falling below the Bank of Japan's 2% target. The Australian market ended higher. Investors reacted positively to corporate earnings and falling Treasury yields. On the corporate side, Wisetech Global soared 12.7% after the logistics software company said its CEO, Richard White, will step down, but will remain with the company as a consultant. Thus, NIKKEI -0.60%; HANG SENG +0.49%; CSI 300 +0.70%; S&P/ASX 200 +0.06%; KOSEI +0.05%; SHANGHAI COMPOSITE +0.55% ended with mostly positive returns.
