Global Overview

United States:

The US stock market ended the day with positive results, registering another record, due to the latest reports on vehicle sales. In addition, major automakers improved their sales as consumer discounts and demand for replacement of hurricane-damaged vehicles gave industry a breather after past disappointing results. In more detail, stock prices have been boosted by solid economic data, including the recent ISM manufacturing survey for September, to which is added the high expectations for the tax cut legislation to take place. On the other hand, Goldman Sach CEO Lloyd BlainKfein wrote on his twitter "I still think about Bitcoin. There is no conclusion-no endorsing / rejecting, People were also skeptical when paper money shifted to gold. "There is also consider the role of Goldman about the opportunity to invest in crypto-currencies." Finally, the price of crude oi fiel 10-50%, this fall was due to the latest quotes made by Fifth Battings in Chicago. According to the sorting machine, the average price of a barrel of oil this year will be below 60 dollars, due to low world production prices, increasing production and the ability of producers to act in response to changes in the market.

Europe:

The European stock market closed with positive results among its main indices. European shares traded lower today because of investors' concerns about the developments in the referendum in Catalonia last Sunday, in which about 90% of voters supported the separation of Catalonia from Spain. The central government of Spain declared the vote illegal, and Justice Minister Rafael Catalai warned that Madrid will do "everything possible" to avoid division. Also, today there was a general strike in Catalonia condemning police violence closing schools and public transport for most of the day. Husseln Sayed, head of market strategy at RXTM, said that political risks have been rising since the German federal elections, where the far-right party has positioned itself in the official results, now the situation is complicated by the vote in favor of the independence of Catalonia. However, Spanish banks such as Caitabank, Banco Santander and Bankia managed to recover from the losses that occurred on Monday. Regarding Germany, today it did not open the stock exchange for the holiday called "German Unity Day", which commemorates the Reunification of Germany in 1990. On the other hand, the construction sector in the United Kingdom declined unexpectedly in September, as did the "construction managers' purchasing index," which fell from 5.1.1 to 48.1 in August, the first time the index fell below its minimum threshold of 50.

Asia:

ASIG:

The Asian stock market ended today's session with positive results among its main indices, with the exception of the benchmark index of Singapore and Australia, on the other hand, the markets of China and South Korea are closed during the week. On the earnings side of the Asian market, these were driven by shares of Hong Kong and Japan, thanks to optimistic data from the United States. In more detail, gains from the Hange Seng index were due in part to the that they collected profits from Monday's region when the Hong Kong market closed for a non-working holiday. On the other hand, in Japan, the gains were due to US dollar gains overnight, depreciating the year against the dollar, which helped the shares of exporting companies by gwing them a competitive advantage for cheaper goals in the Australian Stock market, the decline was due to a decline in commodity producers and weaknesses in the country's banking stocks. Meanwhile, Australia's central bank left benchmark interest rates on hold, following comments by RBA governor Philip Lowe on the health of the economy; in addition, the cash rate remained at a record level of 1.5%, at which level it has remained since August 2016.
