Global Overview:

United States:

The US market closed with negative results among its main indices, with the Nasdaq (-3.05%), followed by the S & P 500 (-2.33%) and the Dow Jones (-2.24%), amid greater commercial concerns and the publication of the report of the labor Department, where 155,000 jobs were added in November, lower than forecasted (190,000). Among the main news, oil prices rose more than 3% in the week, with Brent (-2.10%) strading at $58.29 per gallon, as well as WIT (-2.35%) trading at $50.39 for the day then of the agreement by OPEC and its allies to reduce oil production by 800,000 barrels per day for six months from January. This occurs to alleviate concerns about a possible global excess of crude supplies. On the other hand, i.b. growth slowed in November and monthly wages rose less than expected which points to some moderation in economic activity that would support expectations of lower interest rate increases next year, while that the unemployment rate remained unchanged at a minimum of 49 years of 3.7%. On the other hand, U.B prosecutors are seeking to extradite Meng Wanzhou, chief financial officer of Huawei Ltd., for facing accusations that he hid ties with a company that sold equipment to Iran despite US sanctions.

Europe:

The European stock market closed with positive results among its main indices. In economic news, according to a survey published by the Bank of England this Friday the inflation expectations to 12 months by the British public have increased to a maximum of 5 years, however, only a few people expect an increase in the rate of interest in the following 12 months. According to the BoE, the average expected inflation increased from 3.0% to 3.2% based on the August survey, being one of the highest ratios since the survey published in November 2013. On the other hand, the price of housing in Britain has shown a slowdown in the last 3 months through November, according to mortgage lender Halifax. In other news, OPEC and its allies led by Russia agreed on Friday to cut oil production by more than the market expected despite pressure from US President Donald Trump to reduce the price of crude oil. Iraql Petroleum Minister Thamer Ghadhban said the producer club will reduce production by 0.8 million barrels per day from January, while non-OPEC allies will bring an additional cut of 0.4 million barrels per day.

Asia:

The Asian stock market closed with mixed results among its main indexes, highlighting the Japanese Nikkei 225 index (+ 0.82%), the Australian S&P/ASX 200 (+0.42%), the South Korean Kospi (+0.34%) and the Hang Seng of Hong Kong (-0.35%). Companies in the technology sector, which were the biggest losses absorbed on Thursday, could recover in the session on Friday, for example, Samsung Electronics Co rose +1.11%, while Tencent and Largan Precision increased +2.10% and +2.14% respectively. Continuing with news about the arrest of the Huawei CFO, today he will be in a courr in Vancouver for a bail hearing while awaiting possible extradition to the United States. On economic issues, in an effort to stabilize rising debt levels, China reduced its annual budget deficit target for this year to 2.6% of GPP. According to a government-controlled newspaper, the Chinese government should slow down its de-leveraging process and tolerate a larger budget deficit to support the economy as downward pressures mount. In corporate news, Nissan Motor Co (-0.02%) said it will remove 150,000 more vehicles in Japan because of non-compliance with inspections. This fact may be averaged arranges approved for prelecting lurgeness according to the surfamely in a press release. have caused erroneous approval or rejection judgments, according to the automaker in a press release.
