Global Overview:

United States:

The main indices of the US market ended downwards, shares sank due to concerns that the United States and China would not reach a trade agreement, which increased amility about the slowdown in world economic growth. Today, the largest merger of banking companies in the US was agreed since the last financial crisis. Regional bank BBT&T Corp (+3.98%) will acquire Surrive all sanks (+8.3%) for 28MM dollars in shares. The bank shope to close the deal later this year, which is possible under the auspices of the deregulation measures applied by the Trump admiration. The sector was previously restricted by measures underwords to consolidation, the merger will oblige other regional banks to consider their own agreements to remain competitive. In other news, Twitter (-9.84%) shares plummeted after company projections indicate that the first half of 2019 revenues will be lower than expected and that operating costs for the year will increase. The growth of 24% of sales in Q4 driven by the segment of advertising videos was overshadowed by new estimates; it was also known that he level of active users in the platform reached its lowest level in 2 years and that they descended for the third consecutive quarter, Twitter stressed that they will no longer published this information.

Europe:

The European market closed down, hurt by the heavy losses of the German shares and the weak data on economic growth in the quarterly report of the European Union. The FTSE 100 ended -1.11% after the Bank of England mentioned that Britain faces its weakest economic growth in a decade, in which the entity has cut its forecast for 2019 to 1.2% compared to 1.7% made in November, where business investment and housing construction will fall significantly during the course of the year. In addition, it was added that interest rates could increase more quickly after reporting that inflation in two years was at 2.1%, above its 2% target. The DAX obtained the biggest drop in the region (-2.67%), where it is worth noting that German industrial production fell by 0.4% for the fourth consecutive month in December last year, led by the Construction sector (-4%), which it is a likely sign that the economy will contract in the fourth quarter. In corporate news, the French bank Societe Generale (-6.77%) reduced its return target on tangible capital in a band of 9% and 10% in 2020 affected by a slowdown in the market in the fourth quarter and the reduction of profits in the investment banking business.

Asia:

The Asian market closed with mixed results while the markets in China, Hong Kong and Taiwan are still closed due to the Lunar New Year. Among its most important indicators, the Nikkel 225 (-0.59%) of Japan closed down, while the Hang Seng indicator (+ 0.21%) had a slight advance in this last date. The first indicator fell due to continued concern about China-12 relations. Even taking into a count the next US delegation consisting of the US Trends yearcetary. Stephen Munchin, and the trade representative, Robert Lighthizer, where they will expect to reach a final agreement with their Chinese counterparts, mainly on technology policies and practices of international business whose advances have been limited throughout the tails. On the other hand, Philip Lowe, the director of the Central Bank of Australia, said in his speech that they will lower their interest rates in order to meet their objectives of controlling the unemployment rate and stabilizing inflation. The forecast for this year would be to reduce Australian rates to a level of 3%, Finally, among the most important individual stocks, SoftBank Group Corp. (+ 17.73%) had a strong rise in its price after the announcement of the CEO, Masayoshi Son, of a large buyback of shares, with a value of $5.46 billion in the next 11 months.
