INDICES (6 MONTHS)

GLOBAL OVERVIEW

United States:

The main U.S. indices ended today's session with losses after the Federal Reserve said it will keep interest rates low and rejected the reduction of support for the economic recovery. Similarly, it signaled that bond purchases would continue as a measure to support the economic recovery. In individual stocks, Alphabet rose +2.90% reaching a new all-time high after the announcement of a $50 billion share buyback; likewise Apple announced that its sales increased by 54% during the quarter. In contrast, Boeing -2.90%; Spotify Technology -12.00%; Texas Instruments -4.4% closed the day with losses after its earnings reports came in below analysts' expectations. As of today, 86% of S&P 500 components reporting earnings estimates beat expectations, according to Refinitiv data. Regarding commodities, WTI crude oil reached the highest level since March 17 after data showed an increase in gasoline demand. Thus, DOW -0.48%; S&P 500 -0.08%; NASDAQ -0.28% ended the session lower.

Europe:

Major European markets closed the day higher, following a series of positive results from leading financial companies. The pan-European STOXX 600 index ended broadly unchanged as investors remained cautious ahead of possible decisions by the U.S. Federal Reserve. However, banking stocks led gains among regional sectors. According to Tom Dorner, chief investment officer for equities at Aberdeen Standard Investments, "Europe's market has performed well for the year and its economic recovery will be strong". He added that "market rotation will continue to favor cyclical stocks such as banks and autos". On the other hand, data from Refinitiv IBES forecasts that European corporate earnings in the first quarter of 2021 will increase by 71.3% year-over-year, well above the forecast given last week of 61.2%. On the stock side, Reuters highlights Deustche Bank +10.70% after reporting a €908 million profit for the first quarter, the strongest in seven years. Santander +2.70%, and Lloyds Banking Group +3.51%, after reporting better-than-expected earnings. Thus, the STOXX 600 +0.02%, CAC 40 +0.53%, FTSE 100 +0.27% and DAX +0.28% closed the day with positive performances.

Asia:

The major Asian indices ended today's session with slight gains as investors continue to digest financial information released in both Japan and Australia. Within China, the market has obtained a positive result as it is evaluating the expansion of a chip factory promoted by the Taiwanese company United Microelectronics Corp. Valued at 3.9 billion dollars. Meanwhile, in Hong Kong it closed higher thanks to a rise in Alibaba shares despite the news of investigation to its founder Jack Ma. In Japan, the retail sector rose 2.05% and they are reassessing with some skepticism being a host of the Olympics, but without an audience. On the other hand, the Korean market closed unchanged. Finally, in the Australian market, the natural resources sector fell 0.94%; Despite this, the iron boom continues with a rise of 0.21 cents, in turn, this week the inflation report was published with 0.6% inflation for the quarter. Thus, S & P / ASX 200 0.00%; SHANGHAI + 0.42%; KOSPI 0.00%; HANG SENG + 0.45%; NIKKEI + 0.21% ended today's session with slightly positive returns.
